ROUND ABOUT TOWN

A certain High School student appears rather discontented that Oyen isn't nearer. One consolation is that he does get down to visit her once in a while which helps to brighten up their budding romance.

We wonder how Florence lived through last week-end. Well she has our sympathy. It's rather hard when the B. F. is so patriotic.

Another young lady had to suffer a similar heartache as the case above. But it was duty that called the object of her affection to a somewhat distant part.

Our town council will have to put a "no-parking" sign on College Avenue. The "revellers" of our neighboring town don't seem to understand that when there is a dance they should attend it and not disturb the sleep of the inhabitants who live on back avenues.

Five-foot-two-and-a-dress-of-blue! Thoughts to this effect ran through an eastern visitor's mind on Sunday. We hear that the poor lad could not eat his supper until he met her.

Too much consideration is being given to troubles in Europe when Canada has plenty of problems to deal with at home."—Wilfred Gariepy.

Two Royal Liners Carry King and Queen

Two ships of the British Mercantile Marine have been honored by His Majesty the King, who with the Queen and members of their Royal retinue, are travelling to and from Canada in ocean liners of the Canadian Pacific fleet.

The 21,000-ton Empress of Australia, graceful and yacht-like as seen above at the top, brings Their Majesties to Quebec on May 15, while the giant 42,500 ton Empress of Britain will sail from Halifax on June 15 with Their Majesties on board. The Empress of Britain, in the lower picture, is seen steaming majestically past the Chateau Frontenac as she approaches her berth at Wolfe's Cove, where the Empress of Australia will land her Royal passengers.

Inset at the top is Captain A. R.

Meikle, R.D., R.N.R., who commands the Empress of Australia on her Royal voyage, and at bottom Captain C. H. Sapsworth, commander of the Empress of Britain, which is now ending her annual Round the World Cruise. The Royal Standard, White Ensign and Canadian Pacific house-flag, which the two liners fly on their Royal voyages, are also seen in the picture grouping.

"If we are to create a truly rural culture in Canada, it must be based on the principle of mutual aid."—Dr. W. Balfour.

There is no reason for a national debt or any debt as long as Canada's resources are as great as now and the skill of the people as great.

Belief that Alberta tar sands may be used for road work in the province is held by observers in Edmonton as result of the reply made by Hon. W. A. Fallow to a resolution from an Edmonton body which requested the use of this natural product. "I hope that the Abasand Company will go into production this year and extract the asphalt from the sands," he said. The large sand content of the native product is said to prohibit transportation on an economical basis at existing freight rates.

Colonization Plans

A perusal of a report recently received from Great Britain leaves one with the impression that drought-ridden prairie farmers who have been seeking a safe anchorage elsewhere have been overlooking a good bet when they passed up Central British Columbia, for we learn from this document that "Our personal impression was that there was no reason why any small farmer on suitable soil and with the will to work should not save anything from $500 to $2,500 a year after feeding his family and buying such household necessities as he cannot produce."

The report is not talking about the happy condition of Central British Columbia farmers in the halcyon days of yore, but makes it clear that reference is made to possibilities under present day conditions for it adds: "They were all mixed farmers and we were further impressed with the fact that in general they had not felt even the worst of the depression to anything like the extent of other farmers, such as the wheat producers of the west."

The report is that of the British Mission of Brigadier General Sir Henry Page Croft and R. S. Delisle to Western Canada last summer to investigate the possibilities of community settlement for British immigrants in British Columbia which was presented to the Prime Minister and the cabinet of Great Britain in the fall.

Apart from the fact that the Mission appears to have unearthed a section of Western Canada where it is apparently still possible to farm on small scale at a profit under present conditions, the report is of considerable interest in the prairie provinces, since it was originally the intention to establish colonies of British settlers under an identical British state-aided scheme, in the wheat growing provinces under what was known as the General Hominy plan, to which considerable publicity was given last year.

The report leaves the impression that whatever plans may have been formulated for British settlement on colonization basis in the prairie provinces have been abandoned for the time being and attention is being concentrated on colonization in British Columbia where to some extent at least, conditions are dissimilar, while the government has promised to make a grant of free land for the use of the prospective colony. Probably the clue to the abandonment of an immediate colonization project in the prairie provinces may be found in the reference already quoted, to the hardships experienced by what growers on the prairies in recent years.

Population Needed

Whether the proposals to settle British colonies on community basis in the prairie provinces will be met, the machinery has been set in motion to transfer colonies to Central British Columbia is apparently not known here at the moment, but it is quite probable that something more will be heard of it in the near future.

There can be no quarrel with the general statement in the report that Western Canada needs greater population to help carry the burden of the overhead which has been created in providing such a large territory with facilities, nor with the statement that every settler on the land provides a means of livelihood for at least one other, in the cities, towns and villages, but conditions must be such that the settler on the land is able to operate at a margin of profit.

This condition cannot be said to have been achieved as long as the staple product on the prairies has to be subsidized or a large number of the producers assisted via the direct relief route, and more particularly in the case if the subsidy is not sufficient to ensure a margin of profit. Until this situation is cleared up, Western farmers as a body are undoubtedly opposed to immigration on colonization scale, even under a two-year guarantee and it is quite conceivable that the east would have some objections to offer.

British Stock Needed

Nor can there be any quarrel with the oft-heard statement that whatever immigration to the country is permitted, whether on colonization scale or otherwise, it is highly desirable that a substantial percentage of the newcomers be of British stock.

And this can be said without impugning the loyalty of other nationals who have sought and been welcomed to the hospitality of this country and the liberty and security it affords, and their offspring. It is, however, essential that there be a strong foundation stock of those who are steeped in the traditions on which freedom and liberty are based to exert a leavening influence on those who have not been so fortunate in the circumstances surrounding their origin.

Certainly this objective should not be lost sight of and should receive every encouragement when conditions permit and opportunities afford.

In the meantime the experiment in Central British Columbia, if it is brought to fruition, and it looks like going ahead, will be watched with considerable interest in the prairie provinces and doubtless some valuable lessons will be learned from it. Let us hope it will be as great a success as its promoters anticipate.

Must Be Widely Read

Moscow Paper Claims Copies Of Stalin's Booles Run Into Millions.

The Detroit Free Press says that if they are trying to decide who is the most widely read current author, it is evident that he is dangerous to leave Joseph Stalin off the list of candidates.

For a Moscow newspaper makes some astonishing claims in its behalf. It asserts that 157,000,000 copies of his books were printed in the period 1933-38 (compared to 18,755,000 volumes of the works of Lenin).

The publication says, too, that in addition, 13,755,000 copies of Stalin's brief history of the Communist party have been printed in ten languages and that shortly 20,000,000 of his speech of last March before the Communist party will come off the press.

A record like that is enough to make Adolf Hitler turn green, and several other colors, with envy.

Statements Of Loyalty

United Church And Salvation Army Send Addresses To The King

An address of loyalty on behalf of 2,000,000 members of the United Church in Canada was forwarded to Lord Tweedmouth to be presented to King George VI. The address was signed by Rt. Rev. John Woodside, moderator, and Rev. Gordon A. Siscoe, secretary of the general council.

A statement of loyalty was also issued by Commissioner G. L. Carpenter on behalf of the Salvation Army in Canada, Alaska, Newfoundland and Bermuda. The statement said the army saluted His Majesty "with loyal and unbounded affection."

New Use For Honey

Found Effective For Stimulating Root Of Cuttings

Ordinary honey may be used with good effect in horticulture in the stimulation of roots of cuttings. Preliminary experiments by the Division of Horticulture, Dominion Experimental Farms, proved the utility of honey in this respect, and a thorough test which was concluded in March established the fact that a 25 per cent. solution of honey had a definitely stimulating effect on roots of both cedar and chrysanthemum cuttings and compared very favourably with any of the hormone chemicals used for that purpose.

A Thrifty Committee

Committeemen in charge of arrangements for the visit to Woodstock, Ont., of the King and Queen are nothing if not thrifty. Informed they would have to buy a red carpet for $350 to cover a runway at the station, they said the carpet would be cut up afterward and sold as rugs, at $3.50 each.

New Terminology

The English Language Is Not Losing Its Resiliency

The English language is at least not losing its resiliency. It pounces on everything new that comes along, and, actually, it makes life much easier.

Europe's troubles can be passed off as due to conflicting "ideologies", or a clash in "dialects". In economics, if you don't like "inflation", you can talk of "reflation". Also there is the new one, "implementation". Sociology crops up with its "mink" and "time-lags", and a new field of study is grouped under "semantics".

Forgot One Thing

The funeral took place yesterday—he had forgotten about motor cars.—Montreal Star.

A Monster Turtle

One sea turtle, dead about 20,000,000 years, caused a lot of scientific excitement at Corvallis, Ore. The turtle's 16-inch skull was found near Newport. Dr. E. L. Packard, Oregon State paleontologist, said its owner probably weighed 1,500 to 2,000 pounds. The find was the first of its kind ever reported in North America.

The Queen Remembered

Talks To Drummer Boy Her Majesty Saw In India 13 Years Ago

The Queen recognized a war veteran she had last seen in hospital at Delhi, India, 13 years ago, a prodigious feat of memory.

Leslie Holden, once a drummer in the Black Watch and now a farm hand at Kempville, Ont., rode 40 miles on his bicycle to take his place among veterans at the unveiling of the National War memorial at Ottawa.

As Their Majesties passed the Queen stopped in front of him and treated him to her dazzling smile.

"Were you not in India?" inquired the Queen.

Drummer Holden said he was too dumbfounded for a moment to speak.

"Yes, ma'am," he finally gulped, "I was in the Second battalion, Black Watch, and you shook hands with me 13 years ago in Delhi as I lay in bed in hospital."

"I remember," nodded the Queen. "Did you get over your operation?"

"Yes, ma'am," said the veteran.

"Do you recognize this?" said Her Majesty, drawing his attention to a brooch on the left shoulder of her white coat. It was a replica of a Black Watch badge, set in diamonds and emeralds.

"Yes, I recognized it right away," said Holden. "It's the brooch the Second battalion gave you when you visited Delhi."

Her Majesty held out her hand. Tears in his eyes, Holden clasped her hand for a moment in both of his.

Russia's Women Workers

Are Said To Be Equal With Men On Railway Jobs

Women are being placed at the head of railway lines in Russia and declared to be achieving success equal to that of men. The pioneer is Zinaida Troitskaya, head of the Moscow Belt Railway, who worked her way from depot mechanic to locomotive engineer and then organized Russia's first women's locomotive crew.

Her success caused the establishment of special courses in engine driving, which were attended by hundreds of women. These were conducted at railway depots by experienced instructors. Galina Todechuk, the country's first woman locomotive fireman, has been placed in charge of another line.

Chinese Trousers

Made From Calico Flour Bags Which Originate In Japan

Japan may not know it, but for months past she has been helping to provide the Chinese with trousers. Many of Australia's calico flour bags come from Japan and when they are filled some go to China. Empty, they are made by the Chinese into pants and the fact that "Best Australian" is stencilled boldly across the seats is a minor detail to the wearer. It is estimated that a consignment for Tientsin this month will clothe, partially, at least, 432,750 Chinese.—Australian Press Union.

Machine Works Accurately

Operating Like Electric Razor It Removes Skin For Grafting

A new machine for skinning human beings to make skin grafting more certain and safe and thus save lives was demonstrated at St. Louis, Mo.

A Kansas City surgeon, Dr. Earl C. Padgett, showed with a pair of rubber cement, a curved piece of sheet metal and a vibrating knife, how he could, if necessary, whisk all the skin off a person who had recently died, and transfer it to save the life of another facing death from a severe burn or injury.

In principle his machine is an electric razor which can cut any area of the skin to any desired depth accurately and quickly. If an area to which skin is to be grafted required it, the instrument could provide a stretch of skin with scalloped edges.

Heretofore skin grafting required that the surgeon have a flat surface of the body to work on when he removed a piece of skin with the ordinary surgical knife, Dr. Padgett said.

With the mechanical Skinner, patches six inches long and four inches wide can be taken off in a few minutes and applied immediately over burned or otherwise damaged areas.

In the use the rubber cement is painted on the curved metal drum and also on the area of the skin to be detached. When it dries, one edge of the drum is placed on the skin and it adheres tightly to the area. The drum is then rotated and a knife driven back and forth by an electric motor follows it to separate the skin from the body. The skin is then stripped off the drum and placed on the area where it is needed. The rubber cement can be rubbed off later after the graft has begun.

Should Think Sooner

Some People Have Ready Excuse After Getting Into Trouble

A man convicted at London, Ont., of drunken driving told the magistrate that he might lose his job. He was, nevertheless, sentenced to two weeks in jail and told that the magistrate was more concerned about people in the street whom he might kill or injure than over the possible loss of his position. That is the correct attitude to take. Men who plead for their wives, their families or their jobs after they have got themselves into trouble never think of them beforehand.

Safer Motoring

Checking Motorists Who Do Not Keep Cars In Safe Mechanical Condition

All over Canada this month, highway constables and city police officers are waging war against motorists who do not keep their cars in safe, mechanical condition. The most common carelessness displayed by motorists is with regard to their headlights and tail lights. The driver who travels on highways with one headlight out is considered one of the greatest menaces in motoring. Police everywhere are issuing orders that such carelessness must be stopped—in the interests of greater safety.

Don't be a one-eyed driver. Wise motorists who wish to avoid fines should have their brakes tested and headlights checked to-day.

EDMONTON NEWS

Edmonton is to receive a new federal government building worth $450,000, according to Hon. James A. MacKinnon, M. P. and minister without portfolio in the Ottawa cabinet.

Alberta's official Address of welcome to the King is a beautiful affair, and congratulations are being tendered to those responsible for its creation.

Hansomly illuminated on vellum is stitched to a large sheet of birch bark—another Alberta product—and it will be rolled for keeping among the King's treasures of his visit to Canada.

Premier Aberhart will read the Address from the steps of the Legislative buildings.

Alberta will soon be using blankets, auto ropes and mackinaws made entirely of wool grown and manufactured in Alberta, according to George A. Clash, Chairman of the Provincial Marketing Board. Mr. Clash stated that with the completion of arrangements in which his board assisted, Alberta's new woolen mill will go into production July 1st.

Situated in Wagrath, the new company received assistance from the local government in the form of a brick building valued at $5,000 with additional building space for machinery and storage.

The company is composed of 92 Alberta business men, the majority of whom are wool-growers. Individual holdings of stock are limited to $1,000.

Mr. E. P. Fanner, Mayor of Wagrath, is president; Mr. Otto Mehr, formerly of the Logan Garment Co. in Utah is Vice-President and David H. Keeler, Wagrath farmer is Secretary-Treasurer of the company.

This is the only woolen mill between Manitoba and Vancouver and is only the fourth to be operated in the West.
